ORDER

Pending before the Court is Defendant Tristar Products, Inc. (“Tristar”) and Zhongshan Jinguang Household Appliance Manufacture Co., Ltd., (collectively, “Defendants”’) Motions in Limine, (ECF Nos. 122–126, 133–134). Plaintiff Tawndra Heath (“Plaintiff”) filed Responses, (ECF Nos. 128–132, 142–143).

Also pending before the Court is Defendant Tristar's Motion for Leave to File Replies in Support of Defendants' Motions in Limine, (ECF No. 139). Plaintiff did not file a Response.

For the reasons stated below, Defendants' Motion for Leave to File Replies is GRANTED and Defendants' Motions in Limine are GRANTED in part and DENIED in part.

I. BACKGROUND

This case arises from injuries that Plaintiff suffered when the lid of her Power Pressure Cooker, Model No. PPC770 (the “Cooker”)¹ allegedly exploded open after she used it to

¹ The Cooker has three main components: a base, a removable inner pot, and a lid. (MSJ 4:12–20, ECF No. 78). “The lid has an internal circumferential gasket, two valves, and set of metal locking tabs.” (Id.)

1 prepare corned beef brisket. (Sec. Am. Compl. ¶¶ 4–20, ECF No. 62); (Dep. Tawndra Heath
 2 31:16–33:20, Ex. C to Mot. in Limine (“MIL”), ECF No. 82-3). Defendant Tristar was the
 3 seller and distributor of that Cooker. (Sec. Am. Compl. ¶ 9). Defendant Zhongshan Jinguang
 4 Household Appliance Manufacture Co., Ltd. (“Defendant Zhongshan”) manufactured the 5 Cooker. (Id. ¶ 10).

6 Plaintiff states that she prepared the corned beef brisket in the Cooker through two 7 cooking cycles at her home. In the first cycle, she set the Cooker for a sixty-minute cook cycle, 8 then “left for . . . Bible study.” (Dep. Tawndra Heath 34:3–36:24, Ex. C to MIL). When she 9 returned, she saw that the corned beef was not finished. She accordingly set it for a second 10 cooking cycle—following the same steps of using the Cooker as the first cycle. (Id. 39:5– 11 42:16). Plaintiff states that when she closed the Cooker’s lid with each cycle, it did not take 12 any force at all. (Id. 35:23–25).

13 After the first cycle, Plaintiff opened the lid easily and without issue. (Id. 41:3–12). For 14 the second cycle, Plaintiff states that she approached the Cooker roughly fifteen to twenty 15 minutes after it emitted a “beeping noise” to indicate the cook cycle was complete. (Id. 44:1– 16 45:5). However, when she attempted to open the Cooker’s lid, she claims that water exploded
 17 out onto her face, neck, chest, and arm. (Id. 53:23–56:19). Plaintiff then went to the hospital, 18 and received treatment for first, second, and third-degree burns. (Report of Benjamin 19 Rodriguez, M.D., Ex. 3 to Resp., ECF No. 86-3).

20 Plaintiff alleges that Defendants had notice that the Cooker was likely defective with 21 respect to the “lid safety interlock system.” (Sec. Am. Compl. ¶ 12). Plaintiff claims that,
 22 despite this notice, Defendants continued to sell the Cooker while representing that the Model
 23 was a safe product. (Id. ¶ 14).

24 On October 12, 2017, Plaintiff initiated this lawsuit against Defendants in the Eighth 25 Judicial District Court for Clark County, Nevada. (Compl. at 1, Ex. 1 to Pet. Removal, ECF No.

1 1-1). Defendants removed the case to this Court on November 15, 2017. (Pet. Removal, ECF
 2 No. 1). Plaintiff asserts four claims for relief against Defendants: (1) negligence; (2) breach of 3 warranty; (3) strict products liability; and (4) violation of Nevada consumer protection laws.
 4 (Sec. Am. Compl. ¶¶ 21–58). She also seeks punitive damages against Defendant. (Id. ¶¶ 59– 5 64). The Court starts with addressing Defendants' Motion for Leave to File Replies.

6 II. LEGAL STANDARD

7 In general, “[t]he court must decide any preliminary question about whether . . . evidence 8 is admissible.” Fed. R. Evid. 104(a). In order to satisfy the burden of proof for Federal Rule of 9 Evidence (“FRE”) 104(a), a party must show that the requirements for admissibility are met by 10 a preponderance of the evidence. See Bourjaily v. United States, 483 U.S. 171, 175 (1987)
 11 (“We have traditionally required that these matters [regarding admissibility determinations that 12 hinge on preliminary factual questions] be established by a preponderance of proof.”).

13 “Although the [FRE] do not explicitly authorize in limine rulings, the practice has 14 developed pursuant to the district court’s inherent authority to manage the course of trials.”
 15 Luce v. United States, 469 U.S. 38, 41 n.4 (1984) (citing FRE 103(c)). In limine rulings “are 16 not binding on the trial judge, and the judge may always change his mind during the course of a 17 trial.” Ohler v. United States, 529 U.S. 753, 758 n.3 (2000); see also Luce, 469 U.S. at 41.

18 Judges have broad discretion when ruling on motions in limine. See Jenkins v. Chrysler
 19 Motors Corp., 316 F.3d 663, 664 (7th Cir. 2002). However, a motion in limine should not be 20 used to resolve factual disputes or weigh evidence. C&E Servs., Inc., v. Ashland, Inc., 539 F.
 21 Supp. 2d 316, 323 (D.D.C. 2008). To exclude evidence on a motion in limine, the evidence
 22 must be inadmissible “on all potential grounds.” See, e.g., Ind. Ins. Co. v. Gen. Elec. Co., 326
 23 F. Supp. 2d 844, 846 (N.D. Ohio 2004). “Unless evidence meets this high standard, evidentiary
 24 rulings should be deferred until trial so that questions of foundation, relevancy and potential

1 prejudice may be resolved in proper context.” Hawthorne Partners v. AT&T Tech., Inc., 831 F.
 2 Supp. 1398, 1400 (N.D. Ill. 1993).

3 III. DISCUSSION

4 A. Defendants’ Motion for Leave to File Replies, (ECF No. 139)

5 “The failure of an opposing party to file points and authorities in response to any 6 motion, except a motion under Fed. R. Civ. P. 56 or a motion for attorney’s fees, constitutes a 7 consent to the granting of the motion.” D. Nev. LR 7-2(d). As Plaintiff has not opposed the 8 Motion, the Court GRANTS the Motion for Leave to file Replies in Support of Defendants’
 9 Motions in Limine.

10 B. Defendants’ MIL No. 1 to Preclude Customer Call Recordings, (ECF No. 122)

11 Defendants seek to exclude customer call recordings, in which customers complained to 12 Tristar about Tristar products between 2014 and the date of Plaintiff’s underlying incident.²
 13 (See MIL No. 1, ECF No. 122). Specifically, they argue that the recordings should be 14 precluded because: (1) the recordings are hearsay and possibly double hearsay; (2) no hearsay 15 exception applies; (3) the recordings cannot be authenticated; and (4) the recordings are 16 irrelevant. (Id. 3:11–12). Plaintiff, in response, claims that the recordings are admissible as 17 business records under FRE 803(6) and otherwise, are relevant to the negligence claim at issue.
 18 (Pl.’s Resp. to MIL No. 1, 2:2–8:13, ECF No. 128).

19 Rule 803(6) provides that business records are admissible when two foundational facts 20 are shown: “(1) the writing is made or transmitted by a person with knowledge at or near the 21 time of the incident recorded, and (2) the record is kept in the course of regularly conducted
 22 business activity.” Sea-Land Serv., Inc. v. Lozen Int’l, LLC., 285 F.3d 808, 819 (9th Cir. 2002)

24
 25 ² On February 25, 2019, this Court ordered Defendants to produce audio recording and live chats made to Defendants between 2014 and the date of the accident. (See Mins. Proceeding, ECF No. 75). Pursuant to the Order, Defendants produced 123 audio recordings involving customer complaints for pressure cookers. (MIL
 No. 1 3:22–24).

1 (quoting United States v. Miller, 771 F.2d 1219, 1237 (9th Cir. 1985)); see also Fed. R. Evid.
2 803(6). The business records exception, however, only applies “if the person furnishing the 3 information to be recorded is ‘acting routinely, under a duty of accuracy, with employer
4 reliance on the result, or in short, in the regular course of business.’” United States v. Pazsint,
5 703 F.2d 420, 424 (9th Cir. 1983) (citing Clark v. City of Los Angeles, 650 F.2d 1033, 1037
6 (9th Cir.1981), cert. denied, 456 U.S. 927, 102 S.Ct. 1974, 72 L.Ed.2d 443 (1982)). Put 7 differently, if the supplier of the information does not act in the regular course, an essential link 8 is broken—the assurance of accuracy does not extend to the information itself, and the fact that 9 it may be recorded with scrupulous accuracy is of no avail. See Advisory Committee Notes, 10 Fed. R. Evid. 803.

11 The 123 audio recordings are not business records. The recordings here are customer 12 call recordings concerning complaints regarding Tristar pressure cookers. (See MIL No. 1, 13 3:17–24). The customers who called regarding Tristar pressure cookers are not individuals
14 “acting routinely, under a duty of accuracy . . . in the regular course of business.” Clark, 650
15 F.2d at 1037. Indeed, Plaintiff does not dispute this fact but instead focuses on the 16 trustworthiness of the recordings. (See Pl.’s Resp. to MIL No. 1, 4:2–8). Plaintiff also attempts 17 to distinguish Paznit from the instant case, arguing that Paznit is not applicable because the 18 case involved a criminal investigation. (Id. 2:20–21). This distinction is, however, without a 19 difference. As explained in the Advisory Committee Notes, the assurance of accuracy under 20 the business records exception does not extend to individuals who act outside the regular course
21 of the business. See Advisory Committee Notes, Fed. R. Evid. 803. Because the customers do
22 not act in the normal course of business at Tristar, these recordings cannot be admitted under 23 the business records exception. Defendants demonstrate that the contents of the calls are 24 inadmissible hearsay and Plaintiff fails to sufficiently rebut this assertion; therefore, the Court
25

1 GRANTS Defendants' First Motion in Limine and finds the 123 audio recordings are not
 2 currently admissible as business records under FRE 803(6).³

3 C. Defendants' MIL No. 2 to Preclude Dr. Pratt's Video, (ECF No. 123)

4 Defendants seek to exclude a video demonstration conducted by Plaintiff's liability
 5 expert, Dr. John Pratt ("Dr. Pratt"). (MIL No. 2, 1:25–26, ECF No. 123). In the 103-second
 6 video, Dr. Pratt tested the alleged defect in Plaintiff's Cooker by filling it with hot tap water,
 7 placing it in the same mode Plaintiff used, and opening the Cooker approximately 49 seconds
 8 after the float valve extended. (Pratt's Rebuttal Expert Report at 7–8, Ex. B to MIL No. 2, ECF
 9 No. 123-2). Defendants argue that the video is irrelevant because the test is not substantially 10 similar to the incident described by Plaintiff. (MIL No. 2, 4:22–6:15). Furthermore, 11 Defendants seek to preclude Dr. Pratt from referencing or showing the video demonstration at 12 trial given the lack of written protocol and scientific methodology used during Dr. Pratt's
 13 testing. (Id. 6:16–8:9). Plaintiff, in response, argues that Defendants failed to timely address
 14 the alleged deficiencies in a supplemental report and further, that any alleged inconsistency 15 between the video and Plaintiff's testimony is explained by the traumatic event. (Pl.'s Resp. to 16 MIL No. 2, 2:15–19, ECF No. 129).

17 i. Admissibility of the Video Demonstration

18 Defendant first argues that the video demonstration should be excluded because the 19 video is not substantially similar to Plaintiff's incident and thus, irrelevant to the current case.
 20 (MIL No. 2, 4:22–6:15). Plaintiff argues that any alleged inconsistency is explained by the 21

22 ³ Plaintiff additionally argues United States v. Childs holds that records kept in the regular course of business and 23 relied upon by that business are admissible under Rule 803(6). (Pl.'s Resp. to MIL No. 1, 3:9–19). There, the 24 Ninth Circuit affirmed the district court's decision to admit exhibits as business records of an entity even when 25 the entity was not the maker of the records. United States v. Childs, 5 F.3d 1328, 1333 (9th Cir. 1993). However, unlike the documents in Childs, Plaintiff fails to demonstrate that the customer call recordings are kept in the regular course of business at Tristar and that Tristar relied on the recordings in their business. Accordingly, because Plaintiff fails to show that the other requirements are met, the business record exception does not apply here even under Childs. See Bourjaily v. United States, 483 U.S. 171, 175 (1987) (a party must show that the requirements for admissibility are met by a preponderance of the evidence).

1 nature of the traumatic event Plaintiff experienced that may be explored through cross-
2 examination. (Pl.’s Resp. to MIL No. 2, 2:15–19). Further, Plaintiff contends that Defendants 3 failed to timely file a supplemental report addressing the deficiencies despite having nearly two 4 full years to do so. (Id. 3:3–9).

5 Nevertheless, the Court finds the video irrelevant. “To lay a foundation for the 6 admission of evidence of other accidents to prove a design defect, or notice of a defect, the 7 party must demonstrate that there is a substantial similarity between the products in question.”
8 Tompkins v. Medtronic, Inc., 17 F.3d 396 (9th Cir. 1994); see also Cooper v. Firestone Tire &

9 Rubber Co., 945 F.2d 1103, 1105 (9th Cir. 1991). “Minor or immaterial dissimilarity does not 10 prevent admissibility.” White v. Ford Motor Co., 312 F.3d 998, 1009 (9th Cir. 2002). Rather, 11 “the rule rests on the concern that evidence of dissimilar accidents lacks the relevance required 12 for admissibility under FRE 401 and 402.” Cooper, 945 F.2d at 1105. The proponent of the 13 evidence carries the burden in demonstrating a substantial similarity between other accidents to 14 the accident which is the subject of the litigation. Smith v. Beech Aircraft Corp., No. 97-17135, 15 1999 U.S. App. LEXIS 8351, at *4 (9th Cir. Apr. 29, 1999).

16 Plaintiff, who seeks to admit Dr. Pratt’s video, fails to demonstrate a substantial
17 similarity between the incident described by Plaintiff and Dr. Pratt’s experiment. Defendant
18 points out two significant differences, namely that: (1) Plaintiff did not force the lid to open
19 whereas Dr. Pratt forced off the lid; and (2) Plaintiff waited at least 15 to 20 minutes before
20 opening the Cooker whereas Dr. Pratt opened the Cooker while it was still pressurizing. (MIL 21 No. 2, 5:6–15). In response, Plaintiff does not attempt to establish a similarity between the two 22 incidents. Plaintiff instead claims that any alleged inconsistency between the video and 23 Plaintiff’s testimony is explained by the nature of the traumatic event that she experienced.
24 (Pl.’s Resp. to MIL No. 2, 2:6–14). Though Plaintiff suffered a traumatic event, she still carries 25 the burden in showing that Dr. Pratt’s video is relevant and specifically, a similarity between

1 the two incidents. Smith v. Beech Aircraft Corp., No. 97-17135, 1999 U.S. App. LEXIS 8351,
 2 at *4 (9th Cir. Apr. 29, 1999). Because Plaintiff fails to demonstrate similarity between Dr.
 3 Pratt's experiment and her incident, the Court GRANTS Defendants' request to preclude Dr.
 4 Pratt's 103-second video.

5 ii. Admissibility of Dr. Pratt's Video Demonstration as Foundation for Dr.
 6 Pratt's Expert Opinion

7 Defendant further argues that the video is inadmissible for the purpose of illustrating a 8 scientific principle pursuant to FRE 702 and Daubert because the video and associated 9 testimony are not reliable. (MIL No. 2, 6:16–8:9). The Court's "gatekeeping" obligation 10 concerning admission of expert testimony derives from standards set by Federal Rule of 11 Evidence 702 and Daubert v. Merrell Dow Pharmaceuticals, Inc., 509 U.S. 579, 113 (1993).
 12 In broad terms, these standards require that the party intending to offer expert testimony show
 13 by a preponderance of the evidence that the expert possesses the qualifications and experience
 14 to render the expert opinion, that the opinion offered has adequate support for the conclusions 15 and analysis, and that "the expert's scientific, technical, or other specialized knowledge will 16 assist the trier of fact to understand the evidence or to determine a fact in issue." Daubert, 509
 17 U.S. at 588–90; Fed. R. Evid. 702(a).

18 The methodology Dr. Pratt used during the video demonstration cannot be tested in this 19 case. See Fed. R. Evid. 702(c) ("A witness who is qualified as an expert . . . may testify in the 20 form of an opinion or otherwise if the testimony is the product of reliable principles and 21 methods.") (emphasis added). As Dr. Pratt admits in his deposition, he did not follow any 22 written protocol for his test. (Depo. Dr. John Pratt ("Pratt Depo.") 138:15–25, 156:22–25, 23 157:1–6, Ex. C to MIL No. 2, ECF No. 123-3). Notably, Plaintiff does not rebut this assertion.

24 Instead, Plaintiff seemingly contends that Defendants' failure to timely file a 25 supplemental report renders the video admissible. (Pl.'s Resp. to MIL No. 2, 1:21–2:5).

1 However, whether Defendants timely filed a supplemental report is irrelevant to whether the 2 recorded demonstration is reliable. Because Dr. Pratt cannot confirm the reliability of his 3 testing method, the Court finds that Dr. Pratt cannot rely on the video demonstration in his 4 expert testimony. The Court accordingly GRANTS Defendants' Second Motion in Limine and 5 finds Dr. Pratt's 103 second video inadmissible.

6 D. Defendants' MIL No. 3 to Preclude the Expert Report Discovery Prior to

7 November 16, 2018, (ECF No. 124)

8 Defendants seek to exclude any expert discovery Plaintiffs disclosed after the November
 9 16, 2018 expert report discovery cut-off. (MIL No. 3, 3:9–13). Specifically, Defendants argue
 10 that Plaintiff's failure to disclose Dr. Pratt's Rebuttal Expert Report and Dr. Pratt's 11 Supplemental Expert Report renders the reports inadmissible pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil 12 Procedure 37.⁴ Plaintiff asserts that Defendants are unable to demonstrate prejudice given that 13 Defendants deposed Dr. Pratt after the disclosure of both the Rebuttal and Supplemental 14 Report. (Pl.'s Resp. to MIL No. 3, 3:11–4:3, ECF No. 130).

15 "Rule 37 'gives teeth' to Rule 26's disclosure requirements by forbidding the use at trial
 16 of any information that is not properly disclosed." Goodman v. Staples the Office Superstore, 17 LLC, 644 F.3d 817, 827 (9th Cir. 2011) (quoting Yeti by Molly, Ltd., 259 F.3d at 1106); Fed. R.
 18 Civ. P. 37(c)(1). Rule 37(c)(1) is a "self-executing," "automatic" sanction designed to provide 19 a strong inducement for disclosure. Yeti by Molly, Ltd., 259 F.3d at 1106 (quoting Fed. R. Civ.
 20 P. 37 advisory committee's note (1993)). "The only exceptions to Rule 37(c)(1)'s exclusion
 21 sanction apply if the failure to disclose is substantially justified or harmless." Goodman, 644
 22 F.3d at 827; Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(c)(1).

 24
 25 ⁴ Defendants specifically note that Plaintiff untimely disclosed supplemental expert reports from Dr. John Pratt and Joellen Gill; however, only discuss the supplemental expert report from Dr. John Pratt. (See MIL No. 3, 3:12–12). Accordingly, because Defendants do not discuss the supplemental report by Dr. Gill, the Court does not address Dr. Gill's supplemental report.

1 “Among the factors that may properly guide a district court in determining whether a 2 violation of a discovery deadline is justified or harmless are: (1) prejudice or surprise to the 3 party against whom the evidence is offered; (2) the ability of that party to cure the prejudice;
 4 (3) the likelihood of disruption of the trial; and (4) bad faith or willfulness involved in not
 5 timely disclosing the evidence.” Calvert v. Ellis, No. 2:13-cv-00464-APG-NJK, 2014 U.S. Dist.
 6 LEXIS 110624, at *11-12 (D. Nev. Aug. 8, 2014) (citing Lanard Toys, Ltd. v. Novelty, Inc.,
 7 375 Fed. App’x 705, 713 (9th Cir. 2010)). “[T]he burden is on the party facing the sanction . . .
 8 to demonstrate that the failure to comply with Rule 26(a) is substantially justified or harmless.”
 9 Torres v. City of L.A., 548 F.3d 1197, 1213 (9th Cir. 2008). The Court first addresses Dr.
 10 Pratt’s Rebuttal Expert Report.

11 i. Dr. Pratt’s Rebuttal Expert Report

12 First, Defendants argue that Sections VI and VII in Plaintiff’s rebuttal expert witness 13 disclosure dated December 17, 2018 (“Dr. Pratt’s Rebuttal Expert Report”) do not rebut prior 14 reports, but rather introduce new theories of liability against Defendants. (MIL No. 3, 6:20–24).
 15 Because these two sections are not proper rebuttals, Defendants assert that Dr. Pratt should be 16 precluded from referencing these sections at trial pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure
 17 26(a)(2)(D)(ii). (Id. 6:23–24). In response, Plaintiff disregards Defendants’ argument, arguing
 18 instead that Section V—a completely different section—actually rebuts Defendants’ expert 19 testimony. (Pl.’s Resp. to MIL No. 3 4:10–5:13).

20 Under Local Rule 7-2(c), “[t]he failure of an opposing party to file points and authorities
 21 in response to any motion, except a motion under Fed. R. Civ. P. 56 or a motion for attorney’s 22 fees, constitutes a consent to the granting of the motion.” See D. Nev. LR 7-2(d). Here, 23 Plaintiff ignores Defendants’ argument and focuses on a separate, unaddressed section in its 24 rebuttal. Because Plaintiff fails to provide a response, the Court construes Plaintiff’s lack of 25

1 response as a consent to Defendants' objection. The Court thus finds that Sections VI and VII
 2 of Dr. Pratt's Rebuttal Expert Report are not truly rebuttal expert testimony.

3 The late-disclosed Rebuttal Expert Report, however, was harmless. Expert testimony
 4 which is not truly rebuttal in nature shall not be allowed at trial, unless the failure to disclose
 5 information required by Rule 26(as) was "harmless" or "substantially justified." Downs v. River
 6 City Grp., LLC, No. 3:11-cv-00885-LRH-WGC, 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26056, at *7-8 (D.
 7 Nev. Feb. 28, 2014). As Plaintiff asserts, Defendants deposed Dr. Pratt on January 10, 2019
 8 after Plaintiff filed her Rebuttal and Supplemental Reports. (See Pratt's Depo. at 2); (see also 9 Pl.'s Resp. to MIL No. 6, 2:11, ECF No. 142). Whatever surprise or prejudice suffered by 10 Plaintiff is, thus, minimal. See Calvert v. Ellis, No. 2:13-cv-00464-APG-NJK, 2014 U.S. Dist.
 11 LEXIS 110624, at *13 (D. Nev. Aug. 8, 2014) (finding that exclusion of the expert is not an 12 appropriate remedy given that Plaintiff suffered minimal prejudice and surprise and thus, has 13 "ample opportunity to cure the prejudice"). Accordingly, though the rebuttal was untimely and 14 not truly rebuttal expert testimony, the deposition addressed the prejudice. The Court thus 15 finds that excluding Sections VI and VII are not appropriate remedies for Plaintiff's untimely 16 disclosure.

17 ii. Dr. Pratt's Supplemental Report

18 Defendants also argue that Section VII of Dr. Pratt's Supplemental Report is not, in fact, 19 a supplemental report under Rule 26(e) because Dr. Pratt relied upon evidence that was 20 available at the time of his first expert report dated November 16, 2018. (MIL No. 3, 7:9–21).
 21 Because the report is not a supplemental report, Defendants assert that Plaintiff untimely filed
 22 the report. (Id. 7:19–21). Plaintiff, in response, argues that the entire Supplemental Report
 23 addresses new information, and that any delay is excusable for good cause given the time it
 24 took to produce deposition transcripts and distill the information into the Supplemental Report.
 25 (Pl.'s Resp. to MIL No. 3, 5:14–6:10).

1 Plaintiff again fails to directly rebut Defendants' argument; however, as above, the 2 Court finds the late disclosure harmless because Defendants deposed Dr. Pratt after Plaintiff
 3 filed Dr. Pratt's Supplemental Report. In Section VII, Dr. Pratt states, “[u]pon further review
 4 of Tristar documents produced during Discovery[,] I have now identified over 40 complaints of 5 injury or damages by the Tristar electric pressure cookers were reported to Tristar or the 6 CPSC.” (Dr. Pratt's Supplemental Report at 10, Ex. E to MIL No. 3, ECF No. 124-6). Though
 7 this section goes beyond filling in minor gaps in Dr. Pratt's initial expert report, Defendants
 8 cannot assert that they were prejudiced by the untimely disclosure because they were given a 9 chance to depose Dr. Pratt after the Supplemental Report. (See Pratt's Depo. at 2); (see also 10 Pl.'s Resp. to MIL No. 6, 2:11, ECF No. 142). Accordingly, the Court DENIES Defendants'
 11 Third Motion in Limine.

12 E. Defendants' MIL No. 4 to Preclude Documents from CPSC's Investigation, 13 (ECF No. 125)

14 Defendants seek to exclude evidence of the Consumer Product Safety Commission's 15 (“CPSC's”) investigation into Tristar pressure cookers. (MIL No. 4, 3:3–4, ECF No. 125). The 16 evidence includes any documents related to the CPSC's investigation into Tristar brand
 17 pressure cookers, including the subject Cooker at issue (the “CPSC Documents”).⁵ (Id. 3:20– 18 23). Specifically, Defendants argue that the evidence of CPSC's investigation should be 19 precluded because: (1) the CPSC investigative documents contain multiple levels of hearsay for 20 which no exception applies; (2) the evidence is not relevant; and (3) the evidence is not 21 admissible as the basis for expert opinions under FRE 703. (Id. 3:10–16). Plaintiff argues that 22 preclusion is premature because Defendants failed to present the evidence at issue, specifically 23

24 ⁵ The evidence does not include CPSC's letter issued on December 15, 2017, informing Tristar attorneys of the 25 closed investigation. (See MIL No. 3, 3:25–26). Defendants move to admit the letter in the Fifth Motion in Limine. (See id.)

1 the documents from CPSC’s investigation into Tristar pressure cookers. (Pl.’s Resp. to MIL
 2 No. 4, 3:12–17, ECF No. 131). Additionally, Plaintiff asserts that the evidence is relevant
 3 because the other incidents are “substantially similar” to the incident at issue. (Id. 3:18–7:9).

4 Though the Court agrees that some documents may be excluded as inadmissible hearsay, 5 the Court cannot categorically preclude the CPSC Documents without a closer review of the 6 specific document at issue. Some documents may include customer complaints, which are 7 likely hearsay, while others could concern CPSC’s independent investigation into the Cooker.
 8 Defendants fail to mention, in relying on McKinnon v. Skil Corp., that the First Circuit
 9 reviewed the CPSC reports at issue prior to excluding the specific CPSC reports. McKinnon v.
 10 Skil Corp., 638 F.2d 270, 278 (1st Cir. 1981) (“Most of the data contained in the reports is 11 simply a paraphrasing of versions of accidents given by the victims themselves who surely 12 cannot be regarded as disinterested observers.”). Because the Court cannot individually 13 analyze the documents at issue, the admissibility of CPSC Documents will be determined at 14 trial, where Plaintiff will have an opportunity to lay the foundation for the documents and 15 establish the applicability of exceptions to the hearsay rule. See also Neether v. Coleman Co.,
 16 No. CV 03-193-M-DWM, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 47711, at *49 (D. Mont. Sep. 20, 2005)
 17 (denying the “motion in limine to exclude from evidence at trial any documents generated by 18 the CPSC”) (emphasis added). Accordingly, the Court DENIES Defendants’ Fourth Motion in 19 Limine, subject to renewal at trial. Should Plaintiff seek to admit a CPSC document at trial, 20 Plaintiff must demonstrate relevance—specifically, similarity between the incidents in the 21 document and the incident at issue.

22 F. Defendants’ MIL No. 5 to Admit Letter from CPSC to Joe Shull, Esq., dated 23 December 15, 2017, (ECF No. 126)

24 Defendants seek to admit a letter from the CPSC to Joe Shull, Esq. dated December 15,
 25 2017 (the “Letter”) under FRE 803(8), the public record exception to hearsay. (MIL No. 5, 3:9– 11). Plaintiff, in response, argues that the letter is not a public record and further, that 2 admitting the letter violates FRE 403 because the letter is substantially more prejudicial than 3 probative. (Pl.’s Resp. to MIL No. 5, 3:8–4:14, ECF No. 132).⁶

4 i. Public Record Exception

5 Under Federal Rule of Evidence 803(8), a statement or record of a public office is not 6 excluded by the rule against hearsay, regardless of whether the declarant is available as a 7 witness. See Fed. R. Evid. 803(8). A record is considered a “public record” if: (1) “it sets out
 8 the office’s activities, a matter observed while under a legal duty to report, or the factual 9 findings from a legally authorized investigation;” and (2) the opponent does not show that the 10 record is untrustworthy. See id.

11 In C.O. v. Coleman Co., the Western District of Washington excluded Epidemiologic
 12 Investigation Reports (“EIRs”) prepared by the CPSC. Coleman, No. C06-1779 TSZ, 2008
 13 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 122316, at *8-9 n.6 (W.D. Wash. Mar. 24, 2008). There, the Court
 14 distinguished the EIRs from other admissible CPSC documents concerning laboratory tests
 15 performed by CPSC technicians. Id. The EIRS, the Court concluded, “merely reproduce, 16 second- or third-hand knowledge of previous events.” Id. The Court thus excluded the EIRs 17 because the CPSC did not conduct an independent investigation, but instead relied upon the 18 various law enforcement and coroner or medical examiner reports.” Id.

19 Unlike the EIRs, the Letter is plainly a “record or statement of a public office” that 20 constitutes factual findings from a legally authorized investigation” under Rule 803(8)(A)(iii).
 21 The Letter does not rely on second- or third-hand knowledge of previous testing from CPSC 22 technicians or other experts. Brandon Ehlen, a Compliance Officer in the Defect Division of

 24 ⁶ Although Defendants are correct that the letter has not been formally authenticated, it is clear that Plaintiff
 25 would be able to authenticate the letter in compliance with Fed. R. Evid. 901 at trial. The letter is dated December 15, 2017, from the CPSC to Defendants’ counsel. (See Ltr. from CPSC, Ex. A to MIL No. 5, ECF No.
 126-1).

1 the CPSC, issued the Letter to Defendants. (See CPSC Letter, Ex. A to MIL No. 5). The Letter
 2 contains a seal and letterhead from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. (See id.).
 3 In the Letter, CPSC explains its decision to halt the investigation and further explains CPSC's
 4 continuing role beyond the closed investigation. (Id.). The CPSC further states its obligation to 5 investigate under 15 U.S.C. § 2064. The CPSC Letter plainly informs Defendants of the 6 CPSC's decision to close its investigation. Cf. Coleman, No. C06-1779 TSZ, 2008 U.S. Dist.
 7 LEXIS 122316, at *8-9 n.6 (W.D. Wash. Mar. 24, 2008). Plaintiff argues that the document
 8 was not obtained "publicly" because the letter is a private letter between Defendants' counsel 9 and the CPSC. (Pl.'s Resp. to MIL No. 5, 3:8–18). FRE 803(8), however, does not require the 10 document to be publicly reported to constitute a "public record" under the hearsay exception.
 11 With proper foundation, the Letter will be admitted. The Court accordingly GRANTS
 12 Defendants' Fifth Motion in Limine and finds that the Letter is admissible.⁷

13 G. Defendants' MIL No. 6 for the Court to Enter an Order for an Adverse
 14 Inference Jury Instruction, (ECF No. 141)⁸

15 Defendants seek a favorable presumption and/or adverse inference at trial to remedy
 16 Plaintiff's spoliation of evidence. (MIL No. 6 3:18–20). Specifically, Defendants argue that 17 Dr. Pratt's experimental test on December 13, 2018 materially altered the locking mechanisms
 18 on the Cooker at issue. (Id. 3:6–20). In response, Plaintiff contends that the motion should be 19 denied because: (1) Defendants' expert, Mr. Giachetti, failed to disclose his new opinions in a

22 ⁷ Plaintiff additionally argues that the CPSC letter is more prejudicial than probative because admitting the CPSC
 23 Letter is akin to suggesting that the CPSC blessed Tristar's allegedly defective device. (Pl.'s Resp. to MIL No. 5, 3:19–4:14).

24 ⁸ Defendants filed a corrected Sixth Motion in Limine, that includes a supplemental affidavit from Dr. Robert 25 Giachetti, Defendant Tristar's expert witness. (See Corrected MIL No. 6, ECF No. 141). In the supplemental affidavit, Dr. Giachetti specifically changes Paragraph 6 of his original affidavit and updates his professional history. (See Giachetti Aff. ¶ 3, Ex. C to MIL No. 6, Ex. 141-1)

1 supplemental report; and (2) Defendant fails to identify a specific jury instruction. (Pl.’s Resp.
2 to MIL No. 6, 2:10–3:14, ECF No. 142).

3 “A federal trial court has the inherent discretionary power to make appropriate 4 evidentiary rulings in response to the destruction or spoliation of relevant evidence.” Med. Lab.
5 Mgmt. Consultants v. Am. Broad. Cos., Inc., 306 F.3d 806, 824 (9th Cir. 2002) (internal 6 quotation marks omitted). “This power includes the power to sanction the responsible party by 7 instructing the jury that it may infer that the spoiled or destroyed evidence would have been 8 unfavorable to the responsible party.” Id. “When relevant evidence is lost accidentally or for an 9 innocent reason, an adverse evidentiary inference from the loss may be rejected.” Id. The party
10 seeking the sanction has the burden of establishing spoliation. Ryan v. Editions Ltd. W., 786
11 F.3d 754, 766 (9th Cir. 2015).

12 A court can decide the issue of spoliation—and relatedly, whether to issue an adverse 13 jury instruction—in a motion in limine. See Badger v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., No. 2:11-CV-
14 1609-KJD-CWH, 2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 91216, at *24 (D. Nev. June 28, 2013); Smith v. UPS, 15 No. 2:08-CV-01313-RCJ-RJJ, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 158743 (D. Nev. Feb. 16, 2010);
16 Bordegaray v. Cty. of Santa Barbara, No. 2:14-cv-8610-CAS(JPRx), 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS
17 173754, 2016 WL 7260920, at *5-6 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 13, 2016). The issue of spoliation, 18 however, is normally reserved for trial or otherwise decided on a fuller record, like during 19 discovery, backed by declarations. See Hathaway v. Idaho Pac. Corp., No. 4:15-cv-00086-
20 DCN, 2019 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 183647, at *31 (D. Idaho Oct. 21, 2019) (reserving “ruling on 21 spoliation until after all the evidence has been presented” because “the issue of spoliation is so 22 fact driven . . . that the Court cannot take it away from the jury”); see also Grouse River
23 Outfitters Ltd. v. Oracle Corp., No. 16-cv-02954-LB, 2019 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 106402, at *19-24 20 (N.D. Cal. June 21, 2019) (denying the motion in limine regarding spoliation because 25

1 “determining whether spoliation has occurred and the scope of any sanction generally is 2 decided on a fuller record”).

3 Though the Court agrees that Dr. Pratt should not have conducted the experimental 4 testing without notifying Defendants, the Court declines to issue an adverse jury instruction at 5 this time. It is unclear why Dr. Pratt chose to conduct his test without notice to Defendants,
 6 with no protocols in place, and on the actual Cooker at issue, instead of an exemplar.
 7 Defendants, however, have failed to meet their burden in demonstrating spoliation of evidence.
 8 See Ryan, 786 F.3d at 766. There remains a genuine dispute of fact as to whether the Cooker 9 was materially destroyed by Dr. Pratt’s experimental testing. In Dr. Giachetti’s declaration, he 10 asserts that “[t]he testing depicted in Dr. Pratt’s video and described in his deposition caused 11 the pressure cooker to suffer permanent changes and deformation.” (See Giachetti Aff. ¶ 4). In 12 response, Plaintiff provides an email by Dr. Pratt in which Dr. Pratt claims that his 13 experimental testing did not destroy the Cooker. (See Email by Dr. Pratt (“Dr. Pratt Email”), 14 Ex. 1 to Pl.’s Resp. to MIL No. 6, ECF No. 142-1). Dr. Pratt asserts that any alleged 15 deformation of the metal occurred when Plaintiff opened the Cooker during the underlying 16 incident, not during his experimental testing, because the metal strike plate cannot be flexed 17 any further than the initial flex. (Id.). Determining whether Dr. Pratt materially destroyed the 18 Cooker at issue will require a fuller record with more than one expert’s declaration. See, e.g.,
 19 Grouse River Outfitters Ltd. v. Oracle Corp., No. 16-cv-02954-LB, 2019 U.S. Dist. LEXIS
 20 106402, at *19-20 (N.D. Cal. June 21, 2019). Furthermore, motions in limine are not the 21 proper vehicle to resolve fact intensive inquiries. See C&E Servs., Inc., v. Ashland, Inc., 539 F.
 22 Supp. 2d 316, 323 (D.D.C. 2008). Accordingly, the Court DENIES Defendants’ Sixth Motion
 23 in Limine.

1 H. Defendants' MIL No. 7 to Preclude Evidence of Other Lawsuits and Incidents
2 Involving Tristar Pressure Cookers, (ECF No. 134)

3 Defendants lastly seek to exclude evidence of other consumer complaints and lawsuits
4 regarding Tristar pressure cookers. (See MIL No. 7, 3:3–5, ECF No. 135). Specifically,
5 Defendants argue that the evidence is inadmissible because: (1) it is irrelevant; (2) the evidence
6 will be unduly prejudicial and confuse the jury with respect to the issues in this case; and (3)
7 the evidence constitutes inadmissible hearsay. (Id. 3:9–14). Plaintiff, in response, asserts that 8 Defendants' Motion in Limine is “[d]uplicative, redundant, and unnecessary” because 9 Defendants reassert the same issues raised in first Motion in Limine. (Pl.'s Resp. to MIL No. 7, 10 2:3–13, ECF No. 143).

11 “Motions in limine should rarely seek to exclude broad categories of evidence, as the 12 court is almost always better situated to rule on evidentiary issues in their factual context during 13 trial.” Colton Crane Co., LLC v. Terex Cranes Wilmington, Inc., No. CV 08-8525 PSG (PJWx), 14 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 141013, at *3 (C.D. Cal. May 19, 2010). The Court finds that whether 15 the proffered evidence is relevant will be best determined at trial when the objection can be 16 evaluated in a specific context. The Court, at this time, cannot categorically preclude evidence 17 of other lawsuits and incidents without a closer review of the specific facts at issue.
18 Accordingly, the Court DENIES Defendants' Seventh Motion in Limine, subject to renewal at 19 trial.
